Considering an Alternative Way to Sell Your House Certainly this is not for everybody. The question is only, is it right for you? Question 2 of 7

THIS HOUSE IS DATED! WOULD THAT COMMENT OFFEND YOU?

Some home-sellers realize that for them, a hands-off approach is the best way to proceed. There is much more to this asset than the dollar value. It's their home and it's full of memories. They've cared for it – “babied” it even, not because it's a house, but because it's the very center of family.

If you answered “YES”, it might very well be preferable to designate a Realtor to handle advertising, showing appointments, open-house activities, showing feedback and all other activities related to the sale of property. We're excited that you've found the right path! And, if you need help with finding a great Realtor, we can help with that! Call or email for details. There is absolutely no cost to you.

If you answered “NO”, we're here to help! Call or email at your convenience. The process is transparent and there is no pressure or commitment required to discuss this alternative to selling your home. Your “business” approach to this project will save you money!
